Wisdom and Our Spirit

What is wisdom? It is very difficult to say what wisdom is, because wisdom is abstract. Understanding is in our mind, but where is wisdom? According to my experience, wisdom is in our spirit. This means that wisdom is found not in our mind, emotion, will, soul, or heart; wisdom is in our deepest part. When we exercise our spirit, stay in the spirit in every situation, and do things according to our spirit, we shall have wisdom.

When some hear that wisdom is in the spirit, they may say, "James was a man who emphasized wisdom in practical Christian perfection. Why did he not say that wisdom is in our spirit?" Although James does not say this explicitly, he gives us a hint that wisdom is in our spirit. In 3:17 he speaks of "the wisdom from above." Here "from above" means from God. Anything that comes to us from God must touch our spirit. John 4:24 says that

God is Spirit and that they who worship Him must worship in spirit. This indicates that in order to contact God, we must use our spirit. Likewise, when God contacts us, He touches our spirit. Hence, the wisdom that comes from above, from God, must surely come to our spirit. It does not come to our mind, soul, or heart; it comes to our spirit, our God-contacting organ. Therefore, it is correct to say that here we have a hint that wisdom is in our spirit.

Because wisdom is in the spirit, we can have wisdom only by remaining in our spirit. God is the source of wisdom, and He gives wisdom. But the wisdom that comes from God reaches our spirit. Just as we need to use the proper organs for seeing, hearing, and eating, so we need to use the right organ—our spirit—in order to have wisdom.
